“It’s a tough new world” – Policy responses

The bail-outs ...

$8 to $9 trillion pledged
Dec 2007 to Dec 2008

- Focus on infrastructure etc
- Rolls out over a no. of years

$2.7 trillion already spent

- 2nd round for TARP funds now being tapped
- More bailouts to come ?

$700 trillion in notional derivatives

- Derivative book still huge
- More pain to flow ?

Private Credit vs growth - Flows towards Emerging Mkts ...

“The tale of 2 regions”

Key differences – “West vs East/Emerging Mkts” ...

- Cyclical vs Structural
- Impact of bubbles & time to recovery
- The ‘solutions’
 - Debt “balloon” in the West
 - The wrong “medicine ?”

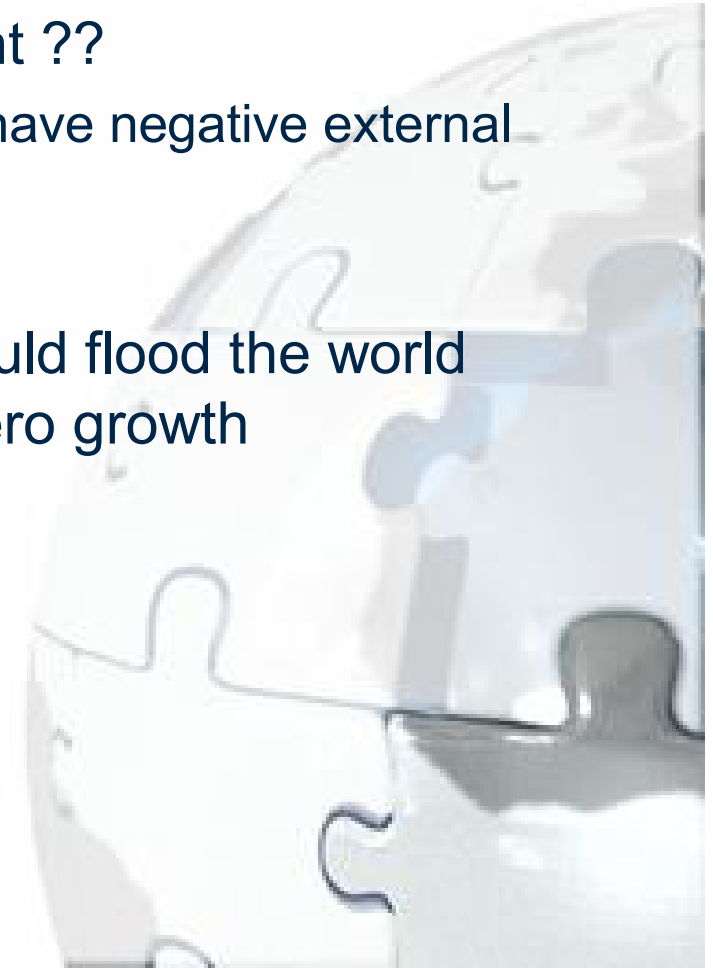

“The tale of 2 regions”

The new “carry trade” – Flows towards the EMs ...

- The Japanese experience
 - Zero growth + zero yield + excess liquidity -> Massive carry trade
- Will the US and UK experience be any different ??
 - Possible worse consequences, as US and UK have negative external balances
- US and UK measures, reinforced by Japan could flood the world with liquidity trying to escape zero yield and zero growth
- Consequences :
 - Weakness in both the dollar and pound
 - Developed world and EM decoupling possible

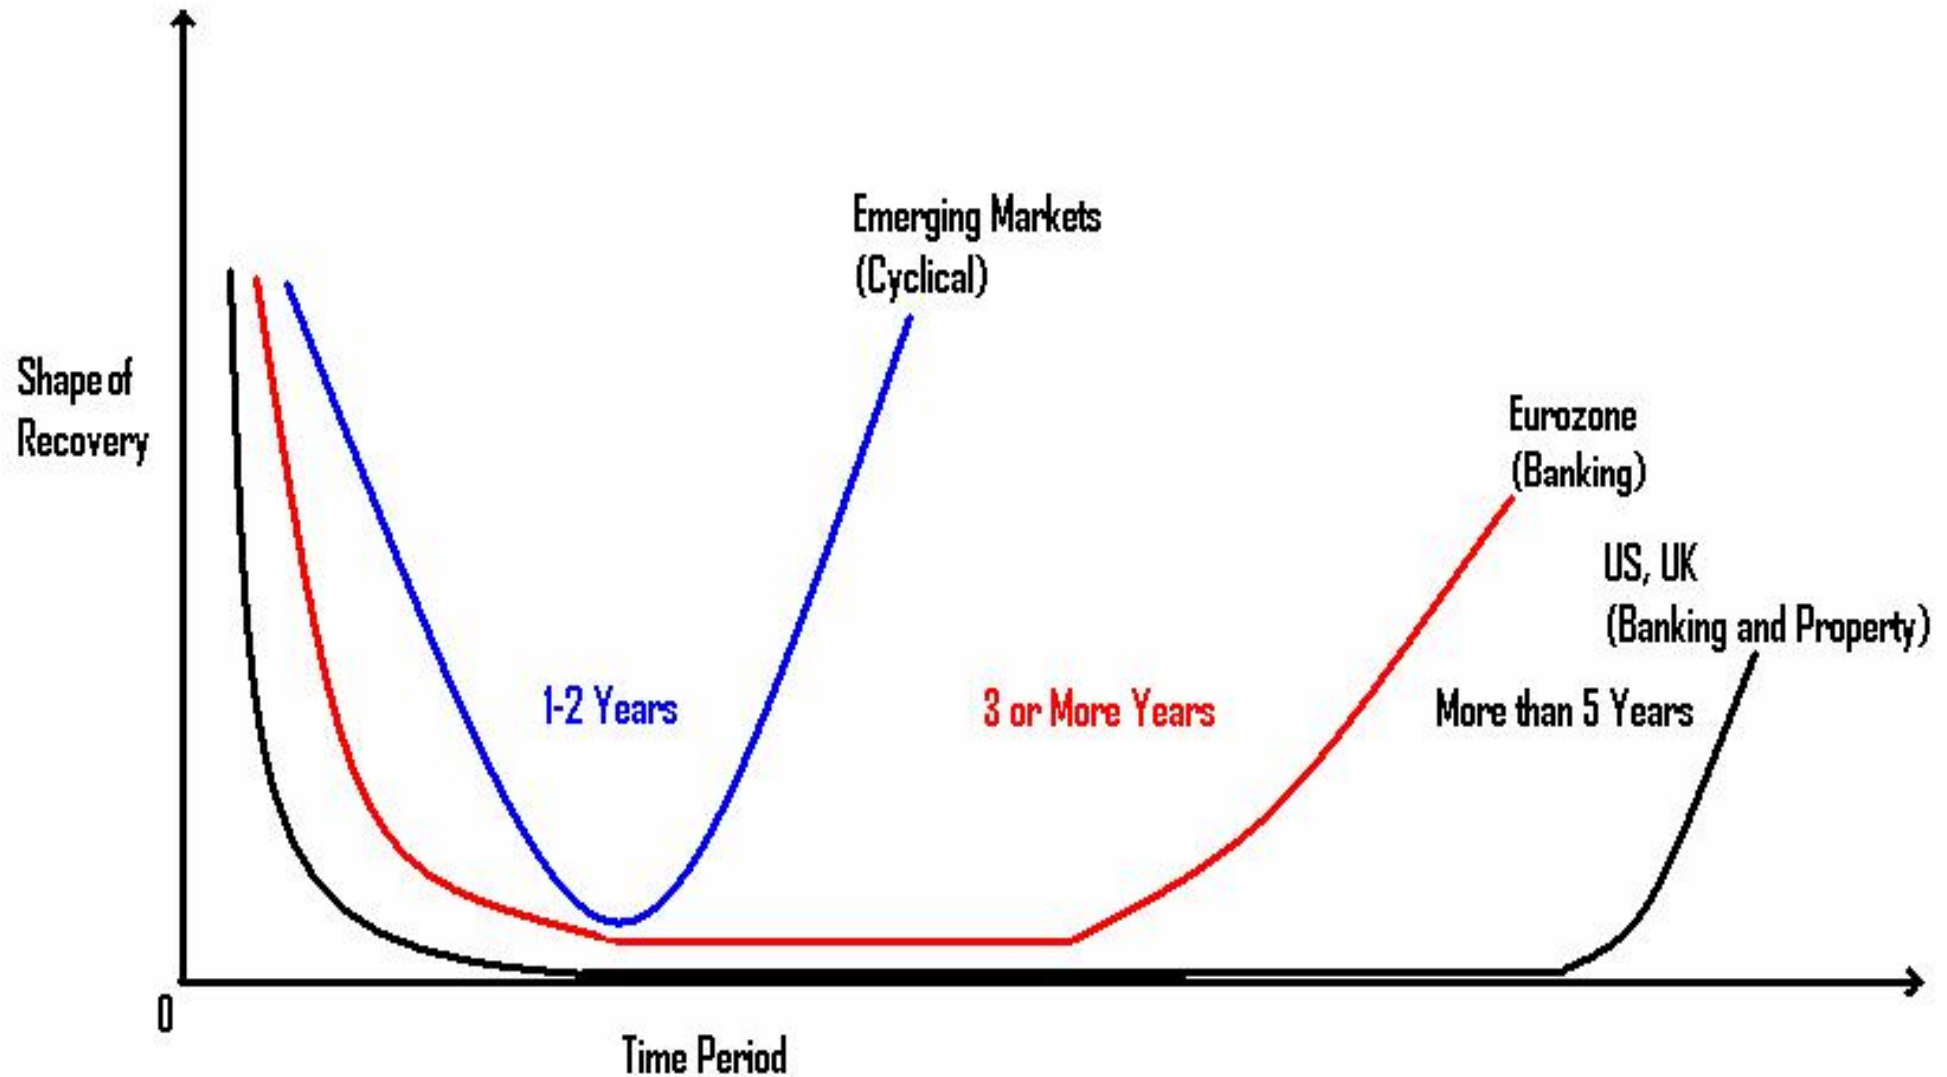

“The tale of 2 regions” – Implications ...

“Its a tough new world”

Opportunities – “Refugee vs Entrepreneur”

- Do you see cup as “half full or half empty” ?
- There are always opportunities – BUT within the correct perspective ie.
 - It is tough out there (& likely to worsen)
 - This is a multi –yr bear market - tho primarily in the West
 - Avoid debt, excess risk, rash responses ...
- The ones who survive WILL be much stronger & huge winners
 - One needs to invest for the future !
